More “Exposure” of Unethical Muslim FOX Anchor Fanchon Stinger, Nothing New to Schlüssel Readers

FOX 2 Forced to do CYA Story to Respond to Schlüssel (by Pseudonym Reporter)

By Debbie Schlüssel

Muslim Sludge Duo: Fanchon Stinger, Rayford Jackson

As I noted, Stinger had a multi-year “relationship” (euphemism) with married father, Rayford Jackson a/k/a Rayford Jackson Muhammad, a top leader in the Nation of Islam and a close Louis Farrakhan associate. Jackson is now embroiled in an FBI investigation of a Detroit City Council bribery scheme, involving a $47 million contract with the the City for a sludge treatment plant. As I also noted, Stinger was involved with Synagro and put some of Jackson’s assets in her name. And she and Jackson apparently coordinated large, matching campaign contributions to the Bush-Cheney 2004 re-election campaign.

As I noted, Stinger had an interest in the sludge treatment plant deal—she was paid by Synagro for marketing, “media consulting,” and PR, while she was employed by FOX News/NewsCorp and paid an annual salary of at least $325,000 to be solely an anchor and reporter. But that money—which puts her in the top 1/4% of money earners in Michigan—was not enough for Stinger.

Even though she was handsomely paid NOT to have outside interests that would compromise her news coverage, she wanted more and wasn’t about to let that thing called “journalistic ethics” stand in her way. Records, posted below, show she formed Stinger Strategies, LLC on September 14, 2007, just three days before a September 17, 2007 letter went out lobbying for the Synagro deal in Detroit to go through. Sources say Stinger may have even written the letter.

Stinger also had another entity, Stinger Strategies, Inc., for several years. Started when she became a news anchor in January 2004, it dissolved in 2007 (see Articles of Incorporation, below).

Just who were the clients of Stinger Strategies, Inc., and how much did they pay her for “media consulting”? How many of them got favorable coverage on FOX 2 News? Did Stinger get money from Rehab Amer, a devout Muslim mother accused of killing her young boy, on whose behalf Stinger lobbied in many news reports and got Amer "cleared," even though many things about the case point to Amer's guilt? How much money was Stinger Strategies, Inc. paid by Imad Hamad and the pro-Hezbollah/pro-HAMAS American Arab Anti-Discrimination Committee, when she hosted events for them and then favorably covered it on FOX 2 News?

And how many other FOX 2 News reporters and anchors have private companies in which outside interests pay them? Who are those interests? Now, FOX 2 News—in the face of its personnel visiting my site daily for the REAL story on Fanchon Stinger, and in the face of a front-page Detroit Newsistan story about Stinger—has been forced to respond. Last night, its chief investigative reporter “Scott Lewis” did a story on Stinger, in which he claimed that he and the rest of his colleagues at FOX 2 are surprised and disturbed by Stinger’s heavy involvement. But that’s a lie, which even he betrays in the story, as he notes that he and his colleagues knew of Stinger’s relationship with Jackson.

The story—though it is deceptively packaged as an expose on Stinger—is really what is conventionally known by three letters: C-Y-A, as in Cover Your [Butt]. People will be distracted by the photos of a Ferrari and Rolls Royce, which Jackson apparently put in Stinger’s name, per her permission.

“Lewis” claims that Stinger never covered or reported on Synagro. But that’s not the point. She gave friendly and warm interviews to parties involved with Synagro, and never disclosed to viewers that she had a monetary interest in kissing Conyers’ butt, which she did. Conyers allegedly took bribes from Synagro and cast the vote that broke the tie in favor of Synagro. Below is a picture from Conyers’ personal website in which Stinger is warm and fuzzy with her on a FOX 2 Morning Show interview. “Lewis” didn’t comment about that.

Nor did he comment about Stinger’s coverage of news stories such as glowing coverage of the Louis Farrakhan visit to Detroit—in which her boyfriend was heavily involved—or the Bush-Cheney re-election campaign, to which she had contributed, in violation of FOX 2 News and FOX News/NewsCorp’s policies. When a past FOX 2 News anchor, Rich Fisher, donated to the campaign of Republican U.S. Senator Spencer Abraham, FOX 2 News made a big deal out of it and made Fisher issue an apology. With Stinger—who, unlike Fisher, is Black, female, and Muslim—no-one seemed to mind or notice.

“Lewis” says in his report that Stinger’s relationship was “considered her personal business.” And that’s where the problem lies. If Diane Sawyer was dating one of David Duke’s top people, it would not be “personal business.” It simply wouldn’t be acceptable. And Stinger’s “dating” (euphemism) of the Black version of that—a top Farrakhan associate—is equally outrageous, though not treated that way by the FOX 2 Newsroom or parent company, FOX News/NewsCorp.

None of what you saw in the “Scott Lewis” FOX News piece is new to my readers. I was the first media outlet to report on Stinger’s “relationship” with Rayford Jackson. I was also the first to report that Rayford Jackson put some of his property and assets in Ms. Stinger’s name, and that she had a personal interest in Synagro. So, it shouldn’t be news to you that cars in Stinger’s name included a Ferrari, a Rolls Royce, and a Mercedes—cars that even on her $325,000 -plus annual salary, Stinger could not afford. Sources say Jackson drove those cars.

The real lesson here is that a Muslim Black female anchor and reporter got away with everything and escaped all scrutiny from a liberal, politically correct newsroom. Despite complaints from myself and even a top executive at FOX News/NewsCorp, FOX 2 continued to look the other way on Stinger’s behavior and involvement with causes that compromised her objectivity. She was an activist and crusader, NOT an impartial reporter. And she got paid for some of her activism.

Many of you may be wondering why I put the name “Scott Lewis” in quotation marks. That’s because, sources say, “Scott Lewis” is not his real name. He uses a pseudonym. Yes, fake names are okay on radio, when you’re spinning Top 40 records. But not in a serious news operation in a major market when you are the top investigative reporter for that news outfit. “Scott Lewis” can claim he’s investigating whatever needs to be investigated, but we won’t know for sure. We won’t be able to look into him and see what his interests are, the details of his records. And that’s significant. While Stinger got a free pass and zero scrutiny by FOX 2 News, we can’t even begin to try to scrutinize “Scott Lewis” or what his interests may be because we don’t know who he really is. There’s something a little hypocritical in that.

There simply isn’t the transparency and open and honest dealings with the FOX 2 viewing audience that FOX 2 News and its investigative unit, “The Problem Solvers,” demand from those it targets in slanted hit pieces.

And he's not just a "reporter" either. He, too, is an activist. A few years ago, "Lewis" was recorded on tape telling a client of mine that the client should dump me. "Lewis"—who has told third parties he is Jewish—said he was troubled by the fact that I wrote a New York Post column and got the FBI to revoke an award to "former" PFLP terrorist, marriage fraud perpetrator, and current ADC-Midwest leader, Imad Hamad—a man with whom "Lewis" FOX 2 and Fanchon Stinger have a close relationship, so close that—as I noted previously—FOX 2 reported as news a fraudulent press release sent out by Hamad and ADC, tried to cover up a previous negative news story on Hamad, and frequently farmed out FOX 2 News personalities to host controversial ADC events. By telling my client this, "Lewis" was no longer covering the story, he was trying to orchestrate the story and became a part of it.

And finally, the other lesson is: When you are a Muslim under investigation and don't want to get noticed, eat at a kosher restaurant. The Southfield, Michigan restaurant, at which "Scott Lewis"—whoever he is—and FOX 2 surveilled a lunch meeting with Stinger and Rayford Jackson Muhammad is a strictly kosher pizza place, "Jerusalem Pizza." Oh, the irony of Jackson Muhammad—who frequently denounced Jews and Israel—needing to rely on those same Jews for shelter and cover. The restaurant, owned by friends of mine, makes excellent pizza, by the way (and has all the vegetarian fake meat toppings you can think of—kosher Jews do not eat meat and dairy together). I recommend the place highly.
