Summary Description of Photographs

- The following photographs are of the exterior of the Balcones Resources operated and Central Texas Refuse (CTR) owned Wilco Material Recovery Facility (MRF) located at 9801 Chandler Rd., Taylor, TX 76574 and of landfill disposal of what reasonably appears to be baled single stream recyclables from this MRF facility at the Williamson County Landfill located at 600 Landfill Rd. Hutto, TX 78634. This MRF was operated by CTR until earlier this year when CTR reportedly entered into a contract with Balcones. See attached press release.
- Photographs were taken during the period between 9/4/2021 and 10/30/2021, both from a helicopter and from ground level.
- The photographs at the Balcones Resources operated and CTR owned Wilco MRF appear to show large quantities of unsorted single stream recyclables stored in both loose and baled form.
- What appears to be baled unsorted single stream recyclables is stored in large stacks and rows, and numerous similar bales appear to have been placed in CTR roll-off dumpsters on an ongoing basis.
- CTR trucks carrying these roll-off dumpsters were observed traveling from the Balcones/CTR Wilco MRF to the Williamson County Landfill operated by Waste Management, Inc.
- Photographs show these CTR trucks dumping and disposing the baled material at the working face of the Williamson County Landfill.
- Detailed photographs of the landfilled baled material indicate that the material is valuable unsorted single stream recyclables.
- Single stream recyclables from Cedar Park, Hutto, Leander, Round Rock, Pflugerville and Taylor, among other communities, municipal utility districts and homeowners associations, are believed to be received at the Balcones/CTR Wilco MRF.

Central Texas Refuse (CTR), a waste hauler based in Austin, Texas, has announced a long-term operating agreement with Balcones Resources Inc., an Austin-based environmental services company. Under the agreement, Balcones will operate CTR's Wilco Recycling facility, located in Taylor, Texas.

The facility is a residential and commercial single-stream recycling facility that manages 15 tons of scrap an hour. CTR, a subsidiary of Integrated Waste Solutions Group, will continue to collect, haul and deliver residential, commercial municipal and other recyclables in the Central Texas area to the Balcones facilities.

"This agreement allows Balcones to expand its recycling presence in the Austin market and to provide CTR with multiple outlets for the recyclables we collect," says Mike Lavengco, CEO and president of Integrated Waste Solutions. "It's a win-win relationship allowing each of us to enhance our core business offerings and expand our geographical presence to better serve the central Texas community."

Balcones will operate the Taylor facility as part of its continued growth strategy in the region and across the United States. Balcones has partnered with Closed Loop Partners, an investment firm based in New York, to focus on equipment investments and the implementation of innovative technology into its operations. The company says it will transform the recycling industry and support its vision of a circular economy.

"We are longtime allies of CTR and [Integrated Waste Solutions Group]," says Kerry Getter, CEO and chairman of Balcones Resources. "We have a lot of respect for their management and ownership. Our companies have been operating in the same market for almost 30 years, and we believe this relationship will provide exciting opportunities to serve additional communities in central Texas."

Balcones Resources, backed by Closed Loop Partners, is known for its expertise in processing and selling recyclable materials. Balcones and Closed Loop Partners remain focused on equipment investments and implementation of innovative technology into its operations to transform the recycling industry and to support its vision of a circular economy.
